session with power point presentation and discussion by Dr Debolina Ghosh. The audience came to know the simple steps that can be followed in everyday life to have better physical and mental health. The importance of proper diet, Proper posture, regular exercise, meditation, suitable sleep habits was emphasized. Some critical health issues like PCOD, Breast cancer, Spondylitis, Fibromyalgia, Osteoporosis and Osteopenia were discussed with reference to their possible triggering factors and measures to combat these as far as possible.

Dr Ghosh emphasized the need to protect oneself through HPV vaccination. The exercises for pelvic muscles and breast self-examination techniques were explained with beautiful step wise diagrams. A question answer session followed. Our students raised questions on personal PCOD, headache, menstrual pain and stress issues. They were assured and advised very patiently by Dr Debolina Ghosh.

The second session was on CPR. The COLS method was explained very diligently by Dr Gargi Ghosh with the help of colourful slides. This showed how to save a person in case of emergency. It was followed by hands on demonstration and active learning on mannequin on the floor. 10 students and 2 teachers learnt the mechanism by immediate practice under the able guidance of Dr Gargi Ghosh.

The session closed with distribution of certificates and vote of thanks.

Workshop on Self Defence

The community crew of the Department of Geography arranged a workshop on self defence on 12th April 2023. The demonstration and short training were held at the New Science building ground for 2 hours from 8.45 am onwards. The trainer was Miss Nibedita Jele, a student of Semester 2 Geography Honours, Rammohan College. She is a purple stripe belt. She has been trained from the SubrotoSesenkai School of Martial Art, Andul in Shito-Ryu style. She demonstrated steps in Kumite (Self Defence). The participants were students of Semester 2 Honours, Semester 2 General and Semester 6 Honours of the Geography Department. The skills displayed are very useful for self-defence. This was an exposure to Karate for the participants. Some of them expressed interest in taking up karate lessons from their neighbourhood Dojos in future.

Kolkata. Professor Bhadury is a SwarnaJayanti Fellow and his research work is focussed on unravelling complexity of biological systems, particularly from coastal (e.g. mangroves) and deep-sea environments using taxonomic and molecular tools (e.g. DNA barcoding) and the role of environmental factors including nutrients in shaping structure and function of biological systems from these environments. The title of his talk was “Exploring Planktonic Biodiversity of Sundarbans looking through the molecular lens.” More than 100 students with Botany as major subject participated from our college as well as Maulana Azad College, Vidyasagar College, Gurudas College, City College along with their teachers. The students expressed great interest and interacted with the speaker actively.
